

Share of Hi-way Funds to Cities, Counties Okayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill providing additional motor vehicle revenue funds for cities and counties was passed 83-7 today by the Arkansas House.

As originally written, and passed by the Senate, the measure would raise the cities' share of highway funds from one million to about 3½ million dollars, but the House yesterday attached an amendment which would give counties an increase also. The counties' share would be raised from 6¼ million to 7¼ million.

Gov. Orval Faubus indicated that he favored the additional aid for counties.

The roll call was taken after only brief debate.

Rep. William H. Thompson of Polk was the only opposition speaker, declaring that the "only damn thing this would do is tear up the highway system."

The bill also contains an amendment retaining for cities their right to levy a municipal automobile license fee.

This privilege would be deleted under the bill as it passed in the Senate.

The bill now goes back to the Senate, which will be asked to concur in the amendments.

Before the bill was called up for final passage, Rep. Bryan McClellan of Calhoun unsuccessfully sought to have the measure placed back on second reading for purpose of amendment.

If the move had been successful, McClellan planned to offer an amendment to strike the bill's existing clause which would have had the effect of nullifying it.

$810 Year for Teachers, Fails in House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A proposed amendment to give Arkansas school teachers a flat $810 annual raise instead of applying the Cornell formula was rejected today by the Arkansas House.

Under the Cornell formula, state aid for schools will be distributed according to a number of factors and is designed to give the most money to the districts which need it most.

The proposal for the flat raise was made by Rep. J. H. Cottrill Jr. of Pulaski County, as an amendment to the minimum foundation program bill which passed the Senate earlier this week.

Cottrill said that teachers had been led to believe that they would get an $810 a year increase from new taxes which have been voted this session.

It has since developed, Cottrill said, that the $810 would be an average and that some individual teachers would receive more and some less.

The proposed amendment was objected by Rep. Paul Van Dusen of Perry County on ground it would benefit the richer school districts at the expense of the poor.

The House turned down the Cottrill proposal on a voice vote.

An amendment by Rep. E. L. Mosley of Ouachita County was adopted.

Mosley's amendment would delete a section of the Senate bill which set the maximum of $5,000 in any fiscal year which a school district could receive from a contingency fund provided for in the bill.

Later Rep. Clayton Little of Benton County sought unsuccessfully to have the favorable vote on the Mosley amendment expunged.

The House must still act on the amended bill itself. This probably will be done Friday, the next Senate day in the House.

SW Desperado Faces Term in Texas Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Floyd Hamilton, former Southwest desperado, today headed back to Texas, where he faces a 5-25 year additional prison sentence.

The 48-year-old onetime member of the Barrow gang of the '30s left the Leavenworth County jail shortly after 7 a. m., told officers he had a better outlook on life now and was turned over to Deputy Sheriff John Massey of Dallas County, Texas.

Hamilton, released from the U. S. Penitentiary here Dec. 29 after serving 18 years of a 30-year term for bank robbery, assault and violation of the Dyer act, was not handcuffed as he got into Massey's car.

Just before getting in he shook hands with Sheriff Arden Rhyn of Leavenworth County and thanked Rhyn for the treatment given him in the jail here.

"I think you've got a better outlook on life than when you came here, haven't you, Floyd?" Rhyn asked.

Hamilton nodded, smiled slightly and said:

"Yes, I do."

The former gangster, who only last Saturday decided to quit his legal battle to avoid return to Texas, gave a newspaper photographer, Johnny Johnston of the Leavenworth Times, the address of his mother, Mrs. S. E. Davis, Star route, Uniontown, Ark. He asked Johnston to send her copies of his pictures.

Since his release from the Leavenworth federal prison, Hamilton had sought unsuccessfully a writ of habeas corpus to prevent his return to Texas to serve sentences for robbery and assault.

He contended he was not a fugitive from justice from Texas and that he was taken from that state in custody of officers.

Saturday, he announced suddenly he would drop his battle to avoid return to Texas and sent Texas authorities a telegram saying he would sign a waiver.

Senate Okays Co-op Right to Serve Cities

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Senate yesterday approved of rural electric co-operatives operating inside a city and apparently settled one phase of the continuing struggle between private utilities and the co-ops.

A bill which would freeze present territorial boundary lines between private utilities and co-ops was passed by a vote of 18-13. Eighteen votes was exactly the number needed for passage.

An amendment, which apparently has little effect on the purpose of the measure was attached by the Senate a few days ago and the bill will be returned to the House for action on the amendment. The House had given the bill a 59-34 endorsement early in the session.

Under the measure co-operatives could continue to operate in a territory after it has been annexed to a city.

Act 35 of 1955 requires that co-operatives which own territory inside a city must negotiate with a private utility with a view to relinquishing customers in the area.

The 1955 act was a compromise between the two factions, with co-operatives agreeing to the measure in return for legislation which would permit the construction of a proposed steam power generating plant in northwest Arkansas.

Co-operatives had said in hearings that Act 35 was unworkable, while private utilities contended that it did work and that it was a compromise measure that should not be changed by the Legislature.

Sen. J. O. Porter of Mulberry, who called up the co-op bill in the Senate, said that "unless you pass this bill, the co-operatives are 'doomed'."

The co-ops have suffered a loss of customers because of the farm-to-city population trend and some of their most valuable territory now lies inside expanding municipalities.

Sen. Ellis Fagan of Little Rock charged that co-ops "were never intended to operate in cities."

Fagan was the only speaker.

'Ice' Worth $2 Million Can't Help But Impress

By H. L. BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — I stared at a two-million-dollar pear-shaped ice in my hand, feeling it burn a hole through my palm.

It looked like the fabled, frozen tear of a giantess, a tear that reflected the soft light from a thousand colored candles.

It also looked like a blob of vanilla jelly on fire.

And it gave me, in this bright, cold room, a sense of the power of nature, a sense of the kind of ice one puts in a bank vault instead of a guest's glass.

"I'm impressed," I said, shaking my mind back into focus. "But for a moment I was afraid it was melting, and you might see me."

My palm was wet with the honest sweat of disbelieving thoughts. After all, it isn't every day that you hold a brand new two-million-dollar diamond — destined to become

Debate Again Delayed on Israeli Problem

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Middle East debate was suspended temporarily today while the United States worked on a compromise plan to get Israeli troops out of Egypt and the Gaza Strip without resort to sanctions.

The 80-nation General Assembly met this morning, but the president, Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand, announced that no delegates were ready to speak on the Israeli-Egyptian dispute.

The Assembly went ahead with a long list of routine budgetary questions. It was expected to turn back to the Middle East problem later in the day.

Chief U. S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge was busy, meanwhile, consulting with other delegates on a resolution which he hoped to submit to the Assembly within a few hours.

The U. S. proposal was understood to include a provision for placing to Gaza Strip under temporary U. N. administration and for declaring the Gulf of Aqaba open to ships of all nations.

Observers predicted such a plan would run into bitter opposition from the Arab states, which had been counting on American support for their sanctions demand.

Details of the U. S. proposal were not disclosed, but U. S. delegation sources said it probably would contain a number of ideas put forward yesterday by Canadian Foreign Secretary, Lester Pearson.

The U. S. plan reportedly has two key aims — immediate withdrawal of Israeli troops and insurance that there will be no revival of the previous hostile situation.

The American sources said it would omit the call for sanctions spelled out in an Assian African resolution now before the Assembly. Reports were current, however, that the U. S. plan would try to meet Arab objections by providing that if the Israelis did not pull out within a certain time, the Assembly would consider penalties.

A resolution with no punitive clause would surround the fire of the Arabs, informed sources said.

"I suppose this thing has been counted, you must keep pretty good track of it," I mumbled, and, for some reason, fell to thinking of Jesse James, Willie Sutton and Capt. Kidd.

"Look at it!" exclaimed Winston, a short, dark-eyed Napoleon of the hard carbon industry who has sold nearly 200 million dollars in gems in a 40-year career.

Winston, who regards this diamond as his life's masterpiece, says it is unique; that no large diamond — although there are a number larger — in any collection "can equal it in quality and brilliance."

"No, not even the Regent diamond in the Louvre, nor the Cullinan diamond in the Tower of London," he said positively.

THE NEW diamond, as yet unnamed, was cut from a 426-carat South African stone, one in a conglomeration of 30,000 diamonds that Winston bought in London a year ago.

Carr announced the charge against Cox to Capitol newsmen.

The warrant against Cox charged him with agreeing to conspire into the bribe to use his influence on the bill outlawing the practice of naturopathic medicine. The bill currently is pending House committee action.

Cox said if the charge is substantiated, it could lead to expulsion from Cox's office, serving his second term, represents Grimes and Montgomery counties in south-east Texas.

Says Schools Fail to Stress Basic Subjects

The correct teaching of such basic subjects as science, physics, chemistry, geometry and mathematics will raise the intellectual level and quality of education in Arkansas high schools, Dr. Sam W. Strong declared in a speech before Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday.

Dr. Strong, one-time school teacher, took a critical viewpoint of some of the subjects now being taught in state schools, and pointed out that some schools now were putting more emphasis on "easy subjects and making the honor roll" rather than teaching students basic subjects that he said were vital in many professions, such as the field of engineering.

He cited a survey which he said showed that in the year 1900 about 84 percent of all schools in the United States taught science compared to a decline to 50 percent through 1950.

"Our greatest problem today is not money, but the lack of stressing basic and fundamental subjects in preparing students for college work and a professional career."

"I realize that higher paid teachers will bring more qualified teachers, and we need that because some of the teaching profession today is not qualified for the subjects they teach . . . but are teaching to supplement income," Dr. Strong declared.

Preceding the speaking program, A. S. (Pup) Willis and Donald Westbrook were presented the Kiwanis Award of the Week for their interest and efforts in Red Cross Work. The awards were presented by Chairman Frank Douglas.

Sam Strong, Jr., was presented in a musical program, a vocal solo rendition of "Love Me Tender," "Singing the Blues" and "Hound Dog."

Young Boys Held in Theft of Batteries

Hope City Police yesterday recovered nine used batteries stolen two nights ago from the Hope Star circulation truck. The batteries belonged to Bud Rogers.

Two 13-year-old boys were picked up for the theft and the batteries were found in the garage at the home of one of the boys.

Israeli Again Urged by U. S. to Withdraw

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The United States again urged Israel point - blank today to make a "voluntary withdrawal" from Egyptian territory.

The latest appeal was made by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in a conference at the State Department with Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir and Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban.

The State Department took the unusual step of disclosing the appeal while Dulles was still meeting with Meir and Eban.

Dulles' plea appeared to be a final effort to obtain voluntary Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area before the United Nations goes before the United Nations with a proposal to put both areas under U. N. control.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in a statement that this government hopes Israel will withdraw and that no U. N. action will be required, but he said moves are under way to take action in the U. N. "in the event this becomes necessary."

"We are still hopeful that there will be a voluntary withdrawal by Israel so that no further U. N. action in this respect will be called for," White said.

Threat to Witness in Probe of Union Stirs McClellan

U. S., France Agree on NATO Forces

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH

WASHINGTON, (UP) — President Eisenhower and French Premier Guy Mollet have agreed to oppose proposed cuts in NATO forces, informed sources said today.

The sources said the two leaders agreed it is necessary to maintain North Atlantic Treaty Organization strength at present levels at this time because Russia continues to be as great a threat as ever.

European NATO members — particularly Britain — are under considerable pressure at home to cut their NATO commitments as a means of trimming defense expenses.

McClellan called the threat a challenge from the underworld "to law an order and to the power of the government of the United States."

McClellan said it was a challenge his committee will accept. The statement that there had been a threat to Carl Elkins marked the start of the second day of hearings in which the committee is investigating alleged gangster and racketeer infiltration of labor unions and industry in the Portland area.

James Elkins said after McClellan's statement, that he had just one comment: "My brother is not in the racket. We call him square."

Carl Elkins, 61, told police in Phoenix, Ariz., that he received a telephone call last night in which a voice he couldn't identify told him:

"Have that brother if yours quiet down. Frank and Dave don't want him to talk any more."

Carl Elkins said he cut off his caller with "some good, old-fashioned mule-skinner language."

When the Senate committee convened this morning, McClellan held a whispered consultation with fellow committee members. Then he announced:

"Since the witness testified yesterday afternoon the FBI has advised us that his brother, Carl Elkins, who is in Arizona, has received another call — this is not the first — anonymous telephone call threatening his life if he should testify or if Mr. Elkins, the witness present, should continue to testify."

Elkins yesterday described dealings with teamsters officials and with William Langley, Portland district attorney. He said he helped swing Teamsters' Union political support to Langley in 1954 in return for what he called a

Situation in Mid East Muddled Yet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is like a juggler trying to keep four glass balls in the air at the same time.

Former President Truman says he sympathizes with Eisenhower because a president has "more troubles than any man in the world."

Truman doesn't agree with how Eisenhower is handling some of his troubles. And because other people feel the same way, that's one more trouble for Eisenhower. He has four glass balls to juggle. 1. Eisenhower is trying to keep Russia—or at least Russian influence—out of the Arab world of the Middle East while increasing American influence there. 2. He's trying to get Israel to promise this country will keep Egypt from attacking Israel once the latter withdraws, since such promises would certainly inflame Egypt and perhaps the Middle East.

3. While juggling those balls, he's waiting for King Saud of Saudi Arabia, who recently visited him, to talk the Arabs into staying away from Russia and increasing their confidence in the good will of the United States. 4. But in the effort to get Israel out of Egypt, the Eisenhower administration has indicated it might consider sanctions against Israel if she doesn't withdraw. This has angered the Arabs but it has angered friends of Israel, including many people in this country. Among them are leaders of both parties in Congress.

In the end, it may turn out that Eisenhower—who is placing a lot of reliance on the United Nations to solve the Israeli problem—might have done better and saved trouble by asserting more positive direct leadership in the Middle East.

For example, by getting together with Egyptian President Nasser, who now can sit back and apparently without making any promises—let the world fight his fight to get the Israelis out of his hair.

But some of Eisenhower's patience may be beginning to pay off a little anyway. Yesterday Saud, no win conference in Egypt with Nasser, Jordan's King Hussein and Syrian President Kuwaty, reportedly was trying to persuade them to clamp down on Communists at home while staying free of alignments with Russia or the West in foreign policy.

This shouldn't sit badly with the West, for the time being at least, if it works to keep Communist influence away from the Arabs. Saud's argument was that this course will satisfy Arab nationalist desires for neutralism while showing in good will to the West.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dulles has been trying to work out with the Israeli ambassador here some kind of agreement which would get Israel out of Egypt without sanctions and without a fight over sanctions in the U. N.

Gambling Bill Likely to Hit House Today

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A bill which would permit Hot Springs to legalize gambling if Garland County citizens approve probably will be brought up for consideration in the House tomorrow Rep. Ray S. Smith of Garland County said today.

The bill received a favorable recommendation last night from the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, headed by Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County. The bill was introduced yesterday.

An identical bill was introduced in the Senate.

Gov. Orval Faubus used a familiar "bridge-crossing" phrase today as a means of saying no comment on a proposal to legalize gambling.

When asked about upcoming legislation, Faubus frequently replies that he "will cross that bridge when I get to it."

When asked about the bill to legalize gambling—which is backed by the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce—the governor said: "I'm not close enough to that bridge yet."

The measure, obviously designed for tourist-conscious Hot Springs, would legalize gambling in any county which voted for it in a special election.

Faubus also described the highway revenue distribution bill, which passed the Senate yesterday, as "another bridge." It would give substantial additional motor vehicle revenue to cities and eventually stabilize vehicle revenue distribution.

In commenting on the Supreme Court decision outlawing the "fair field" price method of determining how much a gas utility should earn, Faubus said that he "hopes it does not cause the rates to go up."

ago for $8,400,000. It cost him $5 in postage to have the 50,000 diamonds flown here by routine airmail in a small cardboard box. Winston and his staff made 300 hand replicas of the 426-carat stone and studied them for three months figuring the best way to cut it.

It took 10 months—1,400 working hours haunted by the fear of a handslap that would mar a multi-million-dollar beauty—to cut and polish the big stone down to just two "Miss Nameless" and two smaller diamonds.

Pear-shaped "Miss Nameless" weighs 128½ carats, or slightly more than nine-tenths of an ounce. Winston himself borne down by his long ordeal, appears to weigh about 380,800 carats—roughly 170 pounds, give or take a few hundred carats.

"She is more graceful, more lovely, than any woman," he said, "and more brilliant. She has 50 main facets, plus 86 smaller facets around the girdle."

"Is that more facets than a woman has?" I asked.

"I don't know women," said Winston. "I know diamonds."

Could this diamond, by any chance, be for sale?

By one of those surprising coincidences that prove this is a small world after all, it is for sale.

"How can you put a price tag on something priceless?" Winston said. "I really hate to part with it, but I would—for two million dollars."

State Farmers Seek Soil Bank Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas farmers have applied for Soil Bank payments on 164,763 acres with the deadline application only three days away on most crops.

Clyde P. Liebong, state administrative officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, said that 1,500 applications have been received, covering 27,149 acres of that crop. The deadline for rice land is March 3 and for all other crops, March 1.

Total payments under the rice applications would be $1,691,262. The office has received 15,903 agreements covering 131,593 acres of cotton land and a possible payment of $7,125,202.

Corn agreements number 853 and cover 3,556 acres and payments totaling $134,515 are involved.

The living room was beautifully decorated with an arrangement of red gladioli, narcissi and pearlized grapes and bowls of red carnations and violets. A miniature George Washington with his hatchet beside a cherry tree arranged on moss carried out the patriotic theme. Miss Clark, Miss Hays and Miss Arnett were presented white carnation and blue hyacinth corsages tied with red ribbon.

Mrs. Wallace Pemberton invited the guests into the dining room. The tea table was laid with an embroidered cloth with lace inserts and held a centerpiece of red carnations, white chrysanthemums, blue hyacinths and fern in a silver bowl. Red, white and blue mints gave a colorful note. A crystal epergne filled with white narcissi, blue hyacinths and violets adorned the buffet.

Mrs. C. H. Tompkins and Mrs. D. L. McRae Sr. presided at the coffee and tea services. Assisting were Mrs. J. H. Langley and Mrs. Hirst. Other members of the house party were Mrs. R. P. Hamby, Mrs. C. A. Haynes and Mrs. Edward Bryson.

Other witnesses testified that Local 690 of the Teamsters Union in Spokane loaned more than $50,000 to gamblers and saloon keepers in Seattle and Spokane.

The names of Dave Beck, international president of the teamsters, and Frank W. Brewster, head of the 11-state Western Teamsters Conference, figured in yesterday's testimony.

Albert J. Ruhl, secretary-treasurer of Spokane Local 690, said that among the $50,000 loans from union funds one for $30,000 went to Sam Bassett, general counsel for the Western Teamsters Conference. Ruhl said Bassett turned the money over to Richard Klinge of Seattle to set up the Rainbow Tavern there.

Kennedy said Klinge was a college classmate and neighbor of Dave Beck Jr., son of the teamsters president. He said Bassett has given the committee an affidavit saying the loan was arranged for Klinge "on orders of Dave Beck" senior.

In Seattle, Klinge said "it was a legitimate loan, just like doing business with a bank." He said he paid back the loan with interest and offered to "show the committee any of my records."

The elder Beck now is in Europe on this third trip abroad in as many months. He has promised to be back to testify in late March.

Seeking Investigation of Ike's Appointee

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Watkins (R-Utah) and Francis Case (R-SD) called today for an examination of the political and diplomatic background of David K. E. Bruce, nominated by President Eisenhower as ambassador to West Germany.

Watkins said the fact that Bruce contributed $1,000 to 1956 Democratic campaign funds "raises a question in my mind whether he supports the Eisenhower foreign policies." The contribution, made to "Democratic organizations," was listed on a report of a Senate Elections subcommittee.

"If he was in sympathy with the ideas of Adlai E. Stevenson during last year's campaign, I would have some question as to whether he can fairly represent the policies of this administration," Watkins said.

against the measure and there was no objection when Sen. Roy Wilkins, 56, said he is under some two dozen state and federal indictments, some of the most brought by Langley as district attorney. Langley has been indicted in the Portland scandals.

The bill represented one of the major issues to be resolved by the General Assembly, but the debate was one of the most orderly of the session.

It was not as intense as the dispute that ensued over the amendment when it was attached a few days ago. The amendment specifies that the PSC must regulate any portion of a co-operative's operations which lie inside the limits of a city.

The Senate also approved, by a vote of 26-4, a bill which would prohibit optical companies from selling glasses directly to the public.

Pagan said that the bill was designed to drive Precision Optical Co. of Little Rock and other optical firm out of business.

The bill now goes to the governor.

The upper chamber approved a Senate bill which would permit the Barber Licensing Board to set fees in a city if two-thirds of the city's barbers approved.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to appropriate $30,000 a year for the Arkansas Sovereignty Commission, set up under one of the four anti-integration measures signed into law by Gov. Orval Faubus yesterday.

The bill originally called for a $50,000 a year appropriation, but this was reduced by amendment.

On the first try yesterday, the bill failed by a few votes of getting the necessary three-fourths majority for passage. It was passed, 79-2, on reconsideration.

The House voted for a public hearing on a bill designed to legalize gambling at Hot Springs under local option even though the measure already had been reported favorably by the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Hepburn and Tracy in a New Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Always a pleasure to watch a couple of pros at work, especially when the pros are Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy.

They are now making their seventh costarring picture, "The Desk Set."

I managed to sneak in one day and found them in fine fettle. Tracy appeared first, a big, lumbering man with a face full of mischief. "This Hepburn dame is tough to work with," he growled. "No, I'm kidding you. She's all right."

Hepburn suddenly appeared, slim as a boy in a black and white slacks suit, freckles shining through her makeup. I asked them how many pictures they had done together and they enumerated:

"Woman of the Year," "Keeper of the Flame," "Without Love," "Sea of Grass," "Adam's Rib," "Pat and Mike."

"This is our seventh," Tracy cracked, "and I may add that it is our last. Who is going to hire us after this?"

"Now that isn't the right attitude," she chided.

"Yes, but it's true," he said. I congratulated Hepburn on her Academy nomination and asked if she would be attending the ceremonies. "Of course not," she replied. "I didn't even go when I won the Oscar" for "Morning in Glory."

"Let's see, that was back in 1932, wasn't it?" Tracy asked. "Yes, and you won in 1934 and 1936," she retorted. The facts: Hepburn, 1932; Tracy, 1937, 1938.

"These awards don't mean a bill to study it and had left it at home.

The bill was made a special order of business for this afternoon to allow Cottrell time to bring it back.

darned thing," Tracy observed. "They may add some dough to a picture's gross, but they don't do anything for actors."

The pair was summoned by director Walter Lang for a scene. Hepburn changed rapidly into a dress, and they went into the scene of a research library of a TV network where a huge electronic brain, blinking with hundreds of lights, threatens to oust the librarian. Hepburn, of course, outwits the machine.

Afterward, Hepburn vanished and emerged in a minute wearing slacks again—she won't spend an unnecessary minute in a dress. She and Tracy entertained Deborah Kerr and Cary Grant, who visited in evening dress from a nearby set. Spirited conversation ensued.

Lang again sought his stars, but Hepburn was reluctant to leave the conversation. She was then dragged bodily into the set by Tracy, who added a small kick for good measure.

70c an Hour Wage Bill Recommended

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A House committee voted to recommend passage of a 70-cent an hour minimum wage bill after a public hearing last night.

The Labor Committee decided to send to the floor without recommendation another bill which would require all labor organizations to register with the state.

Opposition to the minimum wage bill came from a group of employers whose attorneys, Phillips Carroll and Ed Dillon Jr., said they were against the bill in its entirety "as a matter of principle."

Carroll said he feared the bill was "the first step to a higher minimum" and that it would make the state Labor Commissioner "almost a czar."

He objected in particular to a provision which he said could require any employer to submit reports to the commissioner. He said employers who failed to do this could be prosecuted for a criminal offense.

The only other opponent was a Fort Smith restaurant operator, Mrs. Mary E. Goebel, who said many businesses similar to hers could not operate under such a law.

Thirteen women representing the 22 members enjoyed a delicious meal.

Mrs. B. C. Hyatt honored the guests by playing several selections on the piano which closed the meeting.

Delicious refreshments were served to 18 members.

The Jack Bonds' Honored By Friends of Blevins

Approximately 115 attended a bar-b-que supper given Friday night February 22 at the Blevins Cafeteria, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bonds of Blevins, who have been residents of the community for many years, and are moving to Benton where they will be employed.

Mrs. Bonds as a registered nurse has given much of her time in services to help in the community and Mr. Bonds was associated with the Blevins School system. Both have been active in civic and church affairs, and are members of the Marlbrook Presbyterian Church where Mr. Bonds was an elder.

The speakers table was beautifully decorated with a center arrangement consisting of a silvered hatchet embedded in a small log in keeping with Washington's birthday. This was flanked on either side by red magnolia's and jonquils in crystal containers. Individual tables and the entrance hall were adorned with arrangements of jonquils and yellow candles.

On the piano "The Bonds" spelled out in blue letters with a yellow candle behind each letter, and a doll whose skirt was fashioned of yellow jonquils served as a centerpiece was most unusual.

Mr. Bill Lee acted as master of ceremonies for the program which followed the meal. The Blevins F. F. A. Quartet consisting of John Allen Ross, Glen Steed, Gene Earl Jester and Wayne Bell sang, "Live Right, Die Right" and "Too Tired." Gladys Ann Brotherton and Patsy Stone did a pantomime.

Little Miss Delaine Bonds sang, "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

A few words of praise and thanks were spoken by Rev. C. L. Horton, Ira Brooks, Mrs. Sanford Bonds, Hap Brotherton, Mrs. Cecil Hicks, Mrs. Ed Lee, Troy Wade, Jack Cromer, Lige Stephens and Blevins Superintendent of schools, Norman Jones.

Mrs. W. T. Yarberry and Mrs. Dale Bonds on behalf of the group presented the honorees with a gift of luggage and an oven type toaster.

The Bonds' daughters, Mrs. George Wilms of Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. Dale Wilson of Blevins were present to see their parents honored.

This is a true pictorial account of the importance of careful make-up to the beauty of any woman. In the current New York play, "Separate Tables," actress Margaret Leighton plays dual roles: that of a stunning model and that of a plain and dowdy spinster. To achieve the transformation from one role to the other, she simply removed her make-up entirely, donned a wig and emerged the spinster. Clothes, posture and a shambling walk helped, of course. Here, you see Margaret Leighton (left) putting on make-up for the role of the model and then (center) you see her as she is in real life. The drab creature (right) in the last picture is also, unbelievably, Margaret Leighton. Here, she is not applying make-up; she is attaching the wig.

Ask Her For a Date; What Can You Lose?

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 19 and work in an office with several young people my own age. I am especially drawn to a girl who also seems to like me. We joke and laugh together, discuss problems of the day, our personal likes and dislikes, but I just can't bring myself to ask her for a date. I know she occasionally goes out with another man. Under the circumstances, would be it correct for me to ask her?

Dear Casey: Bring up the subject of a movie playing locally. Say you'd like to see it; when she says she would, too, ask if she'd go with you. It's as simple as that and, according to the encouragement she has been giving you, just what she's been waiting for.

Don't worry about the other man, on seem to be the one she prefers, in spite of (or perhaps, because of) your delayed action.

Dear Dorothy Dix: When I was a sophomore in high school, I had a crush on a senior. I wrote several letters to him, but never received an answer. When he graduated, I apologized for this foolish action. The incident should have closed then, but I still dream of him and cry over him.

Dear Heidi: You're just exaggerating a schoolgirl crush and trying to make a grand passion out of it. Snap out of it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a 30-year-old divorcee. Recently I met a boy in his teens who had been in trouble. I took a sincere interest in him, helped him straighten out and took him into my home. I didn't expect any thanks except to become a victim of gossip. That's what happened. The boy had to leave. I ask you, was it fair for people to talk the way they did?

Dear Ellen: Come on now, you're old enough to know that people fill gossip with very little provocation — and young handed them an earful. Your motives may have been good, but the action was indiscreet. You know what they say about good intentions, and you certainly did a lot of paying.

In future, confine your Good Samaritan activities to the very young or very old, and preferably female.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My marriage of one year has been very unhappy. My husband goes to his mother for everything, yet I can't even visit my sister. I am his third wife.

Dear Esther: Did you take the trouble to find out what discouraged the other two wives? A little investigation might have been most enlightening.

B'nai Brith Names Fort Smith Man

FORT SMITH (AP) — Leonard Bogoslavsky of Fort Smith was elected president of the Arkansas B'nai Brith yesterday.

Jerry Glatstein of Blytheville was elected first vice president, J. R. Miller of El Dorado second vice president and Rabbit Irvin Schor-chaplain.

Arkansas Federations of Business and Professional Women's Clubs spoke in favor of the measure.

The registration bill drew fire from Wayne Glenn, executive secretary of the Arkansas Labor Council of AFL-CIO. He called it a "harassment measure."

He also opposed the bill because he said it would permit a union to be used for the acts of members.

Paul Lee, operator of the Owasso Manufacturing Co. of Benton, was the bill's only defender. He called registration and filing of report with the Secretary of State "mild" and said the bill "is proper since we are trying to become an industrial state."

NBC-TV Plans for Biggest Program Year

Lion to Move Office to Houston

EL DORADO, Mo. — The Lion Oil Co., a division of Monsanto Chemical Co., today indicated that it plans to abandon at least part of its Arkansas oil exploration and production activities.

T. M. Martin, Lion Oil president, said in a statement that 25 supervisory employees in the office of personnel for exploration and production were being transferred immediately to Houston, Tex.

Martin said that Monsanto was emphasizing on "adult" Westerns, which have proved popular this season.

Plans are in the making to revamp daytime programming with emphasis on programs of interest to women.

Another new weekly Disney production which will bow in either the first or second Thursday in October is an action film entitled "The Sign of Zorro." This program, Treyz believes, "will have the impact that Douglas Fairbanks films had in the 1920s." With the lead still to be cast, it will concern the adventures of a Robin Hood type character on the Pacific Coast early in the 19th century.

The network will continue its

Lives in Iran But Returns for Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — When Jessie Royce Landis announced she was going to get married and live half-way around the world in Tehran, her friends thought it most unlikely.

After all, the Chicago-born actress was a veteran of the glittering stages of New York, London and Hollywood. For her to leave her career behind to live in remote Iran was incredible.

But she did it. She's here briefly to play yet another mother—June Allyson's—in "My Man Godfrey."

She mothered Grace Kelly in "To Catch a Thief" and "The Swan." Miss Landis told how the whole thing happened.

The story starts in Korea. An infantry general J. F. R. Seitz, happened to see the actress's photo on the desk of another general who was married to a friend of hers. Seitz was impressed.

Later he was returned to the United States to take over command of Camp Kilmer, N. J. This gave him a chance to get to New York and court Miss Landis. When he was transferred to Tehran to supervise supplies and training of Middle East allies, he wanted her to marry him. First, he would see if living conditions were tolerable.

He sent for her, and they were married last November.

"Living in Tehran has been one of the thrills of my life," she remarked. "It has been a fabulous experience. We live in a beautiful house and have eight servants—all for what one servant would cost here. Why, even our house boy has his own driver."

The natives do all the driving.

Racketeer Dies in U. S. Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—George C. (Bugs) Moran, Al Capone's chief competitor in Chicago's booze and gambling rackets in the roaring '20s, died in the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary yesterday of lung cancer. He was 64.

Moran's power in the Chicago underworld faded after several of his lieutenants were among the seven killed in the famous St. Valentine's Day Massacre in 1929, from which he directed his mob's The mass slaying was guarded from which he directed his mob's deceptions on Chicago's North Side.

Moran was brought to Leavenworth Jan. 11 to serve five years for burglarizing the Citizens State Bank at Ansonia, Ohio, Nov. 3, 1945.

Compromise Road Plan Clears Senate

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The so-called compromise road revenue bill, backed by municipalities and the Highway Commission, cleared the Arkansas Senate with plenty of votes of spare yesterday, but there were indications that it may have a rough ride in the House.

The measure would raise the cities' share of motor vehicle revenue from one million to 5½ million dollars annually, leave the counties' cut about where it is and slice some from the Highway Department fund.

There was discussion but very little debate in the Senate, which gave the measure a 29-2 endorsement, but a move to bring up an identical bill in the House fell short of votes. Rep. Knox Kinney, of St. Francis, tried to call the bill up but some representatives complained that the bill had not been placed on everyone's desk 24 hours in advance—as the rules require—and Kinney could not muster the two-thirds majority needed to suspend the rules.

After the bill cleared the Senate, Tsen. Roy Milum of Harrison gained the Senate's permission to withdraw from the governor's office a measure which would add some 900 miles of county roads—12 in each county—to the state highway system.

The county judges are opposed to the "compromise" bill—which actually is a compromise—between the Arkansas Municipal League and the commission—since it provides very little increase for counties. The judges are backing two other measures which would give the counties a substantial increase over the 6¼ million they now receive.

Milum would give no reason for withdrawing the county road addition bill except to say that the action would give Gov. Orval Faubus more time to make up his mind. Faubus has said that he favors some form of additional aid for counties and has criticized the cities-commission bill because it "leaves counties out in the cold."

The addition of the county roads to the state system would put no additional money in the county treasuries, but it would take away the cost of maintaining the 900 miles of secondary roads. The highway department would have to maintain the roads, but would not be compelled to provide immediate improvements.

The governor's legislative secretary, Bill Smith, who helped draft the proposal advocated by the cities and the commission, gave an explanation of the measure of the Senate, but he said that he was not speaking for the governor or either the AML or the commission.

Eventually would stabilize revenue on the basis of road usage, with the highway department getting 75 per cent, the counties 15 per cent and the cities 10 per cent. The formula would not be put into operation immediately since the counties now receive more than 15 per cent of net motor vehicle revenue.

When the total revenues advance to the point that the counties' present share falls below 15 per cent, the formula would take effect.

For the current fiscal year, cities would receive an additional $75,000 and the counties a like amount.

The cities also would relinquish the authority to levy a city automobile license fee after Jan. 1, 1958.

Budget bills which were passed with little discussion included: Forestry Commission, $225,000 for construction of a Forestry Building on the old penitentiary grounds at Little Rock. The money will come from fees the department collects.

Blind School $350,000 and Deaf School $500,000 and Deaf School $500,000 for the biennium, an increase of $20,000.

Blind School, $318,000 for the 2-year period; an increase of $41,000.

Comptroller's office, $550,000 for the biennium; compared to $730,000 in 1955-57.

Identical bills designed to permit legalization of gambling in Hot Springs, where it has been operated intermittently for many years in violation of state law, were submitted in both branches. The bills would provide that controlled gambling be legal in any county voting prior approval at a local option election.

A schedule of heavy license fees and taxes would be set up for gambling establishments, which would be limited to a certain number on the basis of population and which would be licensed by a BOSTON SETS A NEW PACE—This architect's sketch shows the proposed new 100-million-dollar Prudential Center to be built on a 3¼-acre site in the heart of Boston, Mass. Twice the size of New York's Rockefeller Center, it will consist of 12 structures, inter-connected by covered, glass-walled walkways. Dominating all will be the 50-story Prudential office building, tallest in New England. At left foreground is a huge civic auditorium, to be erected by the city. Behind that is a 1,000-room hotel, to be put up by private interests. The apartment buildings at right will contain 1,250 dwelling units. The restaurant (center, foreground) will accommodate more than 800 diners. Behind the restaurant, on either side, are buildings for stores and offices.

MIRACLE IN MUTTON—Watched over by owner John Peterson, a ewe and her four week-old offspring graze on his Rushford, Minn., farm, unaware that they are celebrities in the sheep world. The normal litter is one lamb—or possibly two. But the chance of quadruplets is about once in 100,000 births, according to the University of Minnesota Agricultural School.

HERALDS RED CROSS DRIVE—This is the official poster for the annual Red Cross fund-raising drive, which starts March 1 and continues through the month. Extraordinary drains on the treasury, such as major flood relief operations last year and this winter and Hungarian relief, have compelled the Red Cross to set its 1957 goal at $5 million dollars—10 million more than was raised last year.

Hot Springs Fishing Derby Is Scheduled

HOT SPRINGS (UP)—Anglers from throughout the nation are expected to converge on Hot Springs, three lakes—Hamilton, Quachita and Catherine—April 20 through May 2 for the annual fishing derby.

The fishermen are lured to the resort by the prospects of good fishing and turning their catches into merchandise prizes.

The contest, which attracted more than 2,500 persons from 30 states last year, has grown steadily from a small beginning in 1935, and is one of the high points on the Spa's recreation calendar.

This year, the value of the prizes will amount to $12,500, an increase of $2,500 over 1956.

The sponsors, the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, are planning a National Fresh Water Professional Fishing championship which is to be held in the four days preceding the opening of the derby on April 24.

It is designed to attract leading sports writers, lecturers, fishing promoters and sporting goods manufacturers' representatives.

Top money for the pro championship will be $1,000. Second place will get $500, third $250, fourth $150, and fifth $100. The title will be awarded on a point system based on the number and weight of fish caught. Winning anglers also will receive appropriate trophies.

Fire Destroys Old Whiskey Distillery

WESTON, Mo., (AP)—Fire destroyed a 100-year-old whiskey distillery near here early yesterday.

Part of the distillation building of the McCormick Distilling Co., had stood since 1839. Originally a packing house it was converted to a distillery in 1856.

Claud L. Gray Jr., secretary-treasurer of the firm, said the loss was "irreplaceable," because the vats and other equipment were valued for their age.

He said it was the only licensed distillery between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

Bill Caldwell, Weston fire chief, said defective wiring may have caused the blaze. The plant was being prepared for the opening of its spring run about March 15.

Firemen from nearby towns helped keep flames from six other buildings which house the bottling works, warehouses and offices.

Gray estimated the loss from the spring run at $100,000. He said the distillery would be rebuilt.

Senate a bill it passed last week to increase hunting and fishing license fees. The action left fate of the bill with the Senate.

CHAPTER XXVII

A voice said in Morgan's ear, "If I could dance, I'd be dancing with her."

Morgan shot a quick look over his shoulder at Tom Alder, who had moved up beside and behind him Alder was looking across the room at Helen Jagger.

"You're from Missouri, never heard of a Missourian who couldn't dance."

"Well, maybe I just don't feel like dancing," Alder went on, more eager than Morgan had ever known him to be. "My kid brother, he was the dancer of the family. Right smart, light on his feet. . . Didn't know I had a brother, did you?"

"My brother was a gray suit. He was in the State Guard when the war started and he stayed with Poppy Price all through it. He even stayed on, after. He was killed in '65."

"Sorry, Alder," Morgan said, adding, "In Mexico?"

"Close. Texas. He was with Shelby's rear guard when the Sixteenth Illinois cut them to pieces. Alder exhaled lightly. "He was studying law when he went off with the State Guard."

Morgan knew now why Alder had become talkative. He said, "What did you do before the war?"

"I was a lawyer," Alder replied bleakly. "For that matter, Charley Quantrell was a school-teacher. And we even had a preacher. . . Skaggs. The only man we lost at Lawrence. I hear they dragged him up and down the street and finally poured coal oil over him and set fire to him."

"That," said Morgan coolly, "was after your bunch murdered 79 men."

Alder bared his teeth slightly. "Guess it's too soon for Johnny Rebs and Yanks to get together and talk about the war." He inclined his head and dropped his voice. "Here comes your war!"

Alder faded backwards and Morgan, raising his eyes, saw Helen Jagger coming toward him.

She said, as she came up, "We never danced, Chad. I'm not going to spend my old age wondering what it would have been like if we had danced."

She held up her arms and he took her and they glided away. Helen, even though she had taken the initiative, was silent for a complete circuit of the dance floor. Then, her eyes watching Cass and her brother nearby, she said, "She's growing up quickly."

From the direction of the door Wild Jack Mason's voice rose above the music: "Cowboy, When I tell you something, listen."

Morgan released Helen and turned toward the sickening smack of something striking flesh.

A cowboy was down on the floor blood welling from a bad cut on his forehead. Wild Jack Mason, a revolver in his fist, stood with his back against the wall. The gun was pointed at a second cowboy a few feet away.

Wild Jack said nastily, as Alder and Morgan descended upon him, "Go back to your dancin', folks. This is marshall business."

"Put down that gun, Mason!" snapped Morgan.

"Mister Morgan," sneered Wild Jack. "You were one of our law enforcers for law and order. Well, I'm keepin' order here and no cowboys can run a shindy on me."

"Then pay their fines in the morning," snarled Wild Jack, "and get them out of town."

Tom Alder said softly, "Put up your gun."

Wild Jack's bloodshot eyes focused angrily on Alder. "You talkin' to me?"

"Come outside," Alder said ominously. "I've been hearing about you for a long, long time."

Mr. Wild Jack. Maybe you're as good as they say you are . . . and maybe you're a bluffer."

Wild Jack became alert to Alder to the extent that no one else facing him seemed to matter.

"This isn't your affair," Wild Jack said, turning sullen.

"What if I make it my business?" Alder's hand came out of his pocket and there was a Navy revolver in his fist. "Well, Wild Jack," he taunted, "I've got a gun in my hand."

Joe Jagger came up. "Marshal, this is a friendly get-together and we want no violence."

"Whatever you say, Mayor," Wild Jack said nastily. "I was only doing my duty."

Morgan, knowing that the crisis was over, turned to look for his dance partner.

"I want to go home," she said. "I mean, the hotel."

"Of course, Cass. I'll take you."

As they reached the Drovers Hotel, Cass Simcoe stopped.

"Chad," she said, low, "I'm sorry I'm such a poor sport."

"Nonsense, you've had a rugged day of it."

"Goodbye," she cried, and suddenly buried her head against his coat.

He put his arm gently about her. "I'll see you at the depot in the morning."

"No," she said quickly. "I—I don't want you. Dad'll be there and I don't want him to know."

"Know what?"

"This," she said, and rising on her toes kissed him.

She was gone, then, running up the steps, into the hotel.

It will be the second marriage for the mother of the much-loved Gabor sisters. (Magda and Zsa Zsa have each been married four times. Eva, their mother, Gabor's first husband, Vilmos Gabor, 70, the father of the sisters, lives in Budapest, Hungary.

SMU Wins Over TCU; N. C. Team Wins Another

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Lennie Rosenbluth, a Dixie basketball star who grew up in the shadow of Yankee Stadium, and Grady Wallace, a Kentucky-bred jump-shooter, brought new court honors to the Carolinas today.

Rosenbluth had all the clutch points in his bag of 30 last night to lead North Carolina to a dramatic 69-64 victory over Wake Forest—putting the nation's No. 1 team just one more win away from a perfect season.

And Wallace, racking up 30 points for South Carolina in a 98-96 triumph over The Citadel, recaptured the national basketball scoring lead from Mississippi's Joe Gibbon.

North Carolina's win at Winston-Salem gave Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels a 23-0 record for the season and left only a Friday night game against Duke on their regular schedule. Then they go into the Atlantic Coast Conference post-season tournament, March 7-9.

Rosenbluth, who hails from the Yankees' home in The Bronx, New York City, but now lives in Greenville, Tenn., had one of his best nights for the Tar Heels. When they trailed, 47-39, after four minutes of the second half, he hit eight points in the next six minutes to put North Carolina ahead, 53-51.

When Wake Forest led, 64-63, with 55 seconds left, Rosenbluth swished in two free throws to put the Tar Heels back in front to stay. Wake Forest lost the ball after his clutch two points and then Pete Brennan, a Tar Heel from Brooklyn, sank two free throws to clinch the game.

Wallace, product of mare Creek, Ky., pushed his scoring average to 30.48 points with last night's spurge. The idle Gibbon dropped to second at 30.3. Gibbon has only one more game—tomorrow night against Mississippi State Wallace will play against Clemson Saturday and then, like North Carolina, he goes into the A. C. C. tourney.

Elgin Baylor of Seattle scored a whopping 51 points last night in a 105-95 victory over Portland to jump from fourth place to third Baylor winds up his regular season tonight against the same team—and 40 points will put him ahead of Wallace.

In last night's top conference game, Southern California upset UCLA, the nation's No. 5 team, 84-80. The loss, only the third in 23 games for UCLA, left California alone in first place in the Pacific Coast conference.

In other leading games last night: Southwest Conference Champion SMU drubbed Texas Tech Christian, 88-75, as big Jim Krebs tallied 32 points; John Smyth's 28 points led Notre Dame to a 75-56 victory over Marquette; NCAA-bound Connecticut trounced Holy Cross, 97-80; and Navy edged Delaware, 79-78.

Syracuse (44-5) was added to the field for the NCAA tournament yesterday and St. Peter's (17-3) to the National Invitation.

Four tourney-bound teams will play tonight—Dayton (NIT) vs. Toledo, Syracuse (NCAA) vs. Niagara, Seattle (NIT) vs. Portland, and Xavier of Ohio (NIT) vs. Western Kentucky. Louisville, last year's NIT champion and ranked 10th nationally this year but under NCAA ban from tourney play, will meet De Paul.

Six Sprinters in Oaklawn Feature Today

HOT SPRINGS (AP) — Six sprinters of the 4-year-old and up class were to compete in the $2,000 Daily Racing Form Purse today, featuring a 3-race program at Oaklawn Park.

The 6 furlong claiming event marked the second appearance of the season for Emil Denmark's Prince Eric, who finished fifth to All Corners in the opening day's Inaugural Handicap.

Others in the small field were to be George Guyber's Dr. Joe Kay, R. J. Weston's Niral, Wayne Swezey's Marchese, N. L. Knecht's High Authority and J. H. Thatcher's Revetment.

Prince Eric won the St. Louis Derby at Cahokia Downs two years ago and reached the winner's circle twice in 12 starts last year.

Topweighted in the field at 117 pounds was High Authority, a 6-year-old who clinaxed his 1956 campaign by winning his last two races.

Marchese was a recent winner at the Fair Grounds. Dr. Joe Kay is an invader from Tropical Park. The featured $3,000 Arkansas Restauranters Purse yesterday was won by H. H. Mundy's favored Reson Bob, who came from behind in the stretch.

A crowd of 5,584 watched Jockey John Delahoussaye pilot the fly, who was badly outrun in the early stages. Delahoussaye was astride Exchange Stable's Miss Jandon, who outdistanced her 11 rivals to win easily by seven lengths in the fifth. An odds-on favorite, Miss Jandon paid $3.80 straight.

Delahoussaye escaped possibly injury when Liberty Hill, his horse in the seventh race, threw him at the gate before the start. An examination at jockey's quarters showed he was only shaken up.

Auctioneer and Coffeyville paid $50.40 in the daily double yesterday. Mutuel handle was $312,453.
